come up with smart bin

Kalaburagi: Two students of Central University of Karnataka, Kalaburagi, have developed a 'smart garbage monitoring system', in form of a sensor-based dust bin, which will send a message to the person concerned about the status of the bin. The students — Adwaith S and Sneha — third-year B.Tech students hail from Malappuram, Kerala, and have developed this under the guidance of Prof V Sandeep of Department of Electrical and Electronics Engineering. Apart from sending a message to the worker when the bin is half and completely full, the bin will also send messages at intervals till the garbage is cleared. If the worker does not clear the bin within 40 minutes a message will be sent to the higher authorities. ENS
